

Top view is of the engine showing the crosshead, connecting rod, valve rock shaft, and crankshaft. The bottom view is of the engine from the side showing the valve linkage and the crank in mid rotation. In the crank position shown at the top, the slide valve is all the way to the left selecting the left port for steam entry to the left side of the piston. The right side of the piston is open to exhaust.